Blames Cancellation of Contract for Loss of $55.50 For 50 Weeks

DOYLESTOWN, Mar. 1. — Growing out of the cancellation of a contract and loss of commissions, a Bucks county firm manufacturing household and nursery scales, R. A. Hunter Ordnance & Chemical Company, Cornwells Heights, has named the defendant in two actions in assumpsit filed in the Court of Common Pleas, here, claiming more than $25,000.

A former director and officer, August P. Waltman, 400 Wheat-sheaf Lane, Abington, has named the industrial concern the defendant in an assumpsit suit claiming $23,575, with interest from Sept. 3, 1946.

The plaintiff, who was informed by the board of directors that they decided to sever all connections with him Sept. 27, 1946, claims the cancellation of a contract caused him to lose $55.50 for 50 weeks and selling commissions.

The second action, claiming $2,162.85, with interest from June 30, 1946, has been filed by William J. Graham, 229 East Mount Pleasant avenue, Philadelphia, a salesman.

Bogage & Sons, who operate a jewelry and clothing store at 1816 Farragut avenue, have leased from Charles LaPolla, the property at 201 Radcliffe street, now occupied by Bristol Seed Company, David Landreth, owner.

Louis Bogage and his sons, Ben and Joseph, will on September 1st open their new place of business, they planning to occupy the first floor of the new site, which they state will afford twice as much display room as at their present place of business.

Although the Bogage family has leased the entire three-story building, no definite plans have been formulated for use of the second and third floors.

The Bogage family plans extensive renovations for the front of the property and the interior, and parking facilities will be arranged in the rear, Mr. Bogage states. The family opened its store at the Farragut avenue address last October.

Bristol Seed Co. plans to build an office and warehouse on Otter street at the site of its present warehouse, representatives of that company state. Just when construction work will get underway is undetermined.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

House Vs. Senate

Washington, Mar. 1. ONE thing made clear this week in Washington is that on both labor legislation and governmental retrenchment, the Republicans in the House are going to be considerably tougher than the Republicans in the Senate. Also, more united and disciplined—not to say clearheaded.

THE most convincing evidence of this was in the vote by which the House adopted the resolution reducing the Truman budget by $6,000,000,000. The Republicans not only voted solidly for the resolution but were joined by twelve Democrats, the total being 239 to 175. In contrast, on the Senate side the Senate Republican leadership, as exemplified by Senators Taft and Vandenberg, supported the milder cut of $4,500,000,000, which, with Democratic aid, they put through.

WHAT happens now? Why, the whole business goes into conference where a compromise between the House demand for a $6,000,000,000 cut and the Senate insistence on $4,500,000,000 will be effected—and that compromise will be accepted by both branches. Now, the more acute observers of the congressional scene are pretty well united in the conviction that this compromise will be closer to the House's six billion than the Senate's four and a half. For this belief they have what seems to be two very sound reasons.

FIRST, there is the fact that the unanimity of the Republicans in the House logically should make the House conferees very much more determined in the conference committee than the Republican senators, more of whom would like to

A G. O. P. PLATFORM

It would be impossible to over-emphasize the importance of the various political messages delivered before the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association this week. Coming as they do, at a time when the National Republican Party is at one of its most critical crossroads, they served to throw terrific weight in favor of a definite line of Republican action.

Broadly speaking, the choice faced by the party's national leadership is whether to fight or compromise on a series of issues. These include budget balancing, tax reductions, the labor problem, and, eventually, the future foreign policy of the nation.

The speakers at the Manufacturers' Association were in complete harmony on how to meet these issues.

They demanded a reduction in the President's spending program of a full $6,000,000,000. They called for sharp cuts in Federal taxes. They insisted that the strike-wave must be broken—that labor unions must be responsible for their acts, must be made to live up to their contracts; that the national officers of government must stop playing favorites with labor bosses to curry political support.

Moreover, back of all their remarks were a series of convictions:

That this nation is on the verge of Communism.

That it could be forced over the edge into dictatorship either by a continuing breakdown in the enforcement of the laws, or by an economic collapse resulting from over-taxation and overspending.

That now, if ever, is the time to balance the budget and start retiring the top-heavy national debt.

That present Federal taxes are so high as to be a deterrent to industrial expansion.

That centralization of power in the hands of the executive branch of government has proceeded to a dangerous stage, and must be reversed—again, now if ever.

Foreign policy was not discussed in detail, but there were enough references to show agreement on certain fundamentals in that field. Among these are:

That virtually all the world powers outside the U. S. A. are so far committed to Communist doctrines as to be enemies of our American system of economy.

That this nation's sole hope of being of help to the rest of

RING LOST 16 DAYS TURNS UP IN "MAIL"

Solitaire Had Been "Mailed" With Valentines At Croydon P. O.

OWNER IS JUBILANT

A diamond ring lost 16 days previously was located yesterday by Mrs. Edwin Ballinger, of Maple Shade, Bristol Township, after frantic searchings of the family car, wastebaskets, the sewing cabinet, and practically every nook and cranny of the house.

The ring had been "mailed" with Valentines.

The story starts back on the evening of February 12th when Mrs. Ballinger placed the solitaire on the dining-table as she prepared to wash the dinner dishes. When members of a committee from Bristol Methodist Church arrived at her home for a meeting that evening, and the group decided to use the dining-table to carry out some tasks, Mrs. Ballinger picked up her solitaire also an engagement ring to put them on her fingers. The solitaire did not go on readily, so she placed it to one side of the table.

After retiring she remembered that she had not picked up the ring, but decided to wait until morning. The incident was forgotten until February 15th when she prepared to go out and couldn't find the ring. It wasn't where she had left it, neither was it with her sewing equipment where she had been doing some mending. Mr. and Mrs. Ballinger searched waste-baskets, minutely scrutinized piles of papers they burned, bureau drawers were searched, also the family car—but to no avail.

On Thursday evening, Mr. Ballinger noticed an advertisement that a "valuable piece of jewelry" had been found, this appearing in The Bristol Courier. He urged his wife to telephone the number given, even though she was certain the ring could not have been lost outside the house. The number was that of Miss Tryon, Croydon post-mistress, who agreed that Mrs. Ballinger's description fitted the "piece of jewelry."

Yesterday she definitely identified the ring and happily returned home with it after leaving a reward for Hugh O'Donnell, who had found it.

O'Donnell, who transports mail from the post office to the railroad station, had found the ring in the mail box at Croydon post-office on the morning of February 13th. Then the mystery began to unravel. Mrs. Ballinger had pushed to one side also as the committee members were seated at her table that evening a pile of envelopes containing valentines. It is presumed that the ring was caught in the middle of the pile of envelopes, and was dropped with them in the mail box at Croydon by Mr. Ballinger.

In an effort to locate the owner, Miss Tryon had requested that an announcement be made over an amplifying system at a large manufacturing plant in Croydon. Two other individuals had replied, Miss Tryon states, but neither descriptions answered that of the ring.

What Is Six Billion Dollars?

—by—
SAMUEL B. PETERGILL
"The Gentleman from Indiana"

What is six billion dollars anyway? Look at it this way: If a man earns one dollar an hour, forty hours a week, and has steady work for fifty years from the time he is twenty until he becomes three score and ten, he will earn $100,000. This shows that one billion dollars represents the uninterrupted lifetime work of ten thousand men. Six billion dollars are the life earnings of sixty thousand men. So, instead of talking about saving six billion dollars, let us ask whether we want to save the lifetime toll of sixty thousand men. Wouldn't you think a long time before sentencing sixty thousand young men to a life sentence to support one year's waste in Washington?

The Philadelphia Record and the Camden Courier have been sold, throwing sixteen hundred men out of jobs. The owner, David Stern, says the strike that forced him to this decision, was Communist inspired.

Stern's troubles are highlighted by a recent strike in Paris that shut down all non-Communist papers. The Communist papers were printed. This was followed by a city-wide strike in which all civil service employees quit cold—police, postmen, everybody.

Mr. Roosevelt's policy of coddling Communists, pardoning Browder, admitting Mrs. Browder, harassing

BUNNIES DEFEAT ALUMNI FIVE IN GAME PLAYED HERE

High School Five Showed More Co-ordination Than Previously

FINAL SCORE IS 40 TO 31

Alumni Played Fine Defensive Ball Throughout The Game

Playing its best ball of the season, the Bristol High Bunnies added the Alumni to its list of victims last night on the high school court. Final score was: High School, 40; Alumni, 31.

The Bunnies showed more co-ordination than they have all season and their passing was of the highest grade. Not only this but time and time again the high school lads "stole" the ball from the experienced Bristol Basketball League players.

The Alumni played fine defensive ball with several individual battles taking place. The crowd was interested in watching "Teddy" Sak guard the Bristol ace-scoring, Johnny Pindar. Pindar made four fielders while guarded by Sak and made another while being watched by DeLuca. Three of the double-deckers made off Sak were over-handed shots that would have been impossible to stop.
